Kermit has killed the biggest lion, and some one has had the nerve to cable this back home

The stork is a very-shy bird in some sections, but over in Spain around Alfonso's castle, there's a drove of tame ones. They come right up and eat out of the king and queen's hands. A young princess arrived at the palace yesterday morning just as the six o'clock whistles blew

Jefferson county had as well go right "long and make preparations to take care of her prisoners in the old jail. We know it is a temptation for a county to erect a fine jail, when it has as much use for a jail as Jefferson has, but it must remember that it is wrong to fix up such handsome quarters for prisoners when they are not accustomed to them at home

None of the testimony in the Gould divorce proceedings go to show that Mrs. Gould has ever done anything that is worth while. She has never darned a sock, patched the rear of a pair of trousers, shaved Howard, sewed on buttons, made the biscuits or milked the cow. She may be able to do one or all of these things, but nothing has been said about it. Therefore, we don't believe she is worth to Howard Gould as a wife, and certainly ought not to have that quarter of a million a year

We don't think any reforms will be started along the lines suggested. We have been lying too long now to quit it

We have kickers among us, because if it were not for the kickers the public would be slow to get what's coming to it

"It is a small matter, let it go. Don't raise a row about it. Never know the difference a hundred years from now." That is the kind of talk we too often hear, when we ought to be living just like we were to be right here on the job a hundred years from now, trying to improve the service all the time, too, or trying to get things nearer to our liking. We all have a right to say what suits us, and we ought to express our likes or dislikes oftener kickers or no kickers, knockers or no knockers

IF NOT PLEASED, SAY SO

There are too many people in this world who don't stand up for their rights. We are too afraid we will offend or give too much trouble. We accept poor service, we accept things we know aren't right, and that don't suit at all but will make out with them rather than "rear up about it"

There is such a thing as over doing this trick, but it is under done more than it is overdone. The result is, the people suffer

We read a story somewhere sometime, telling of an old married couple, who had lived peacefully together for fifty or sixty years. The old lady got sick right unto death, and asked her aged companion to lean his head over close to her. She said she had an important secret that she desired to communicate to him before she died. She said she had been laying up to tell him about it since the day before the war, but something hindered her to put it off from time to time, but that she thought she oughtn't to die without putting the matter before him. The old man bent low and listened intently. This is what his wife said to him

"I have been living with you a long time John and during all these years I have been eating bread without salt in it, because you liked it that way. I never liked bread with salt, but I allowed you to believe that I did so that our tastes might more nearly conform. I noticed before we were married while visiting at your house that your mother never put salt in her bread and I knew by that that you with the rest of the family didn't eat salt in your bread so I quit eating salty bread the day we were married although I have been mighty hungry for salty bread since then. It doesn't matter now that I am ready to die and I feel better for telling you how I have kept this from you all these years"

Then John spoke up

"Dear wife, to think that you have never mentioned it before, almost breaks my heart. I too, like my bread salty and always did, but because my mother and the rest of the family liked it without salt, they out voted me, and I had to eat bread without salt, fancying that I would remedy it when once I was master of my own household and then when we were married and I saw you salted not the bread. I concluded that you liked it that way and I never referred to it. How foolish we have been. Been doing without salt in our bread for the best part of our lives because we never opened up and got acquainted before"

Some one offers you a delicious peach, and your mouth waters, but you politely decline it and resort to lying at times, to show where they don't agree with you or that you never eat fruit

A man asks you to have a cold bottle of beer, and fearing the after effects, such as the scent or the noise the cork makes you lie out of that politely—always politely

You are invited to go to church or to join the Sunday School and try to be somebody, and the same kind of a lie taps you on the back and you spin excuses about having to visit a sick friend or watch over a case of diphtheria at home

Your corn the wore one trampled upon but you swear that it didn't hurt at all—"don't mention it"

"Take sugar and cream in your Wh, it doesn't matter—just which ever is the most convenient"

"Take your eggs done or on side"

Another time you pretend to have no choice but if the order is placed in a restaurant particular instructions is given the waiter and a row is raised if the instructions are not carried out to the letter showing you have a choice, and a very particular kind of choice, too

Have this seat

No no, keep your seat—I prefer to stand. Been sitting down all day. There you go again, politely lying your way through life not accepting things that your friends tender you, and who wouldn't think anything of it if you were to tell them the truth a little at times

We all apologize for nearly everything but lying, it needs no apology. Long precedents have made it so

We often go into a store and buy articles we have no earthly use for because we haven't the courage to say we don't want it when the polite clerk insists that we do. We are afraid we will be too much trouble

If we like chicken, we ought to say so. If we like possum there's no harm in the world in coming out and inquiring into merits of the bugger

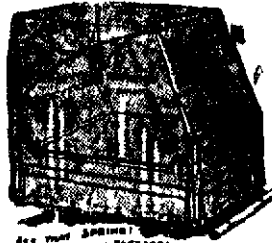

If we had rather rid, than walk we ought to jump right in

You never see children side stepping in any such manner, unless they are very unnatural children or children who have been over trained

We will all regret it like the

MEN PAST FIFTY IN DANGER

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially of enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." Chicago—Lakefront and prairie land. Also society leaders. Also the house of the Baptist church and the Mrs. Potter Palmer society movement. Tank drama, chief part taken by Chicago river music by railroads.

Boston—Incubator of religious, home of new thought, and projector of New England conscience. Culture, beans and bronchitis constantly on tap. Suffers from Harvarditis during winter months. Also breeding place for psychologists.

Philadelphia—Convenient resting place on the way south. This town was started by William Penn and is now the home of the Ladies' Home Journal. Resounds with Quakers and slow music. Chief business: to keep politicians supplied with cash. Does it.

Overbrook Citizen. Printers notice some funny things. Nearly every person who comes into a printing office to inquire whether a job is finished or not, asks if the printing has been "struck off" instead of saying "printed". Most everyone will ask a newspaper man what hour they "go to press," instead of asking what hour the paper is printed, and all people seem to have the idea that if copy is brought in five minutes before you "go to press," no matter how long the article may be, it can be inserted in the paper, for you have not yet "gone to press." All manuscript that is handed in to a newspaper, with the idea that it will be printed in the paper, has been just "dashed off." Recently a manuscript was handed in to the office to be inserted in the paper. It was carefully typewritten and bore all the marks of having been revised, edited and rewritten with much care. Yet it had been just "dashed off." Well, probably it had. It read like it.

WAYS TO MAKE MONEY.

Some Unusual Callings Which Yield An Income to Workers.

In the whole history of the world there has never been a country where it is so easy to make money as in the United States. That there are many ways of making a living besides being a life insurance president, a prize fighter or a hodecarrier is shown by the following collection of unusual occupations:

Of the list of unique callings none is more peculiar than the business of "Dr. Cockroach," of Louisville. For a stipulated annual consideration the "doctor" contracts to keep one's premises rid of cockroaches. At regular intervals he comes around with queer looking tools, and mysterious powders, by means of which he persuades the cockroaches to go.

"Bird doctor and specialist" is the sign on the shingle which hangs in front of an establishment on Broadway in New York. The proprietor is a young woman who takes mamma's pet canary to board while the family is away at the seashore or absent from home at other times. She also has a hospital for sick birds and teaches backward songsters their mission in the world and is able to make a competence from her work.

An Englishman possessed of a small annuity and in bad health went to El Paso, Tex. The expenses of living were so great in the southwestern city that he soon found his income inadequate. He invested all the ready money he had in tight gill and gandy pop-corn stands, with little engines to run the poppers. The idea worked and before long he branched out to San Antonio. He soon turned up a baby trust which brought him an income of $8,000 a year.

A woman in Boston makes a business of taking inventories of houses which are slated for demolition. She comes to the house and her own killing. Attired in rubber boots, she tramps about the marshes and shoots the frogs with a small rifle. —Kansas City Journal.

Mrs. Walter Eby returned to her home at Abbeville this morning.

House for Rent—One twelve room house on corner South Gates and Crawford streets. Apply to Sol Larie, or on the premises. If Miss Florrie Purcell of Columbia spent the day in Dothan.

Mr. J. W. Jenkins, a prominent attorney of Enterprise is in Dothan today.

Rev. R. W. Burdeshaw of Kinsey is here today.

Mr. N. J. Hutto left this morning for Florida to take in the reunion and fiddler convention and visit his son. That boy of his will no doubt be glad to see his father as Mr. Hutto carried with him a bucket full of fine vegetables. Mr. Hutto can garden as well as blacksmith, raising various tomatoes, cabbage, beans and other vegetables.

Several years ago a shoe buyer for one of the Chicago department stores conceived the idea of buying up slightly damaged or blemished shoes from the manufacturers and retailing the same at a sacrifice price. He opened up with one clerk in a single room near the roof of a skyscraper office building. To get a good pair of $5 shoes with nothing more than a little scratch on them for $2 was such a bargain that customers came fast. The business increased so rapidly that the original store has been enlarged to fifteen rooms, and forty clerks are employed instead of one. The capital earned from the original store has been reinvested until now the concern owns eight large stores in other places.

A New Jersey girl, broken down by teaching and office work, was ordered by her doctor to get into some occupation which would keep her out of doors. She followed the physician's advice by acquiring a hoggy farm in New Jersey, where she began the culture of bullfrogs. Persons who heard of the new venture smiled until they learned that she was making a lot of money selling frog's legs at big prices in New York hotels and restaurants. In order to get the fresh air she does her boots, she tramps about the marshes and shoots the frogs with a small rifle. —Kansas City Journal.
